Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you for your message. I assume we will meet sooner than 2019!

23-24 January 2018 is already very dense – I could still offer a slot at 9:30 on 24 January.

If this suits you, I would ask you to fill in the attached form for accreditation purposes and to send it back to [REDACTED] (in copy).

Have a merry Christmas and a good start of 2018!

Best regards,

[REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED],

I hope this e-mail finds you well.

I am reaching out today as my colleague Sarah Herrlinger - Global Director for Accessibility, will be in Brussels again next January 23rd and 24th; we thought it would be a good moment to check in and discuss the progress of the European Accessibility Act, if you are available.

I was thinking we could organize a joint meeting with your colleague [REDACTED], like we did last time. I am happy to send her a separate meeting request, but I'd defer to you on what you believe it's the best approach.

Sarah and I would be available on the afternoon of the 23rd, between 4 and 6 pm, or the 24th basically all day except for 4h30 to 5h30.

I wish you the best for the upcoming holiday season, and I hope to meet you soon in 2019!
