

From: NOWAK Annika (CAB-ANDRIUKAITIS)
To: CAB ANDRIUKAITIS ARCHIVES
Subject: Fwd: Google and Debating Europe – Fighting harmful content online – 5 February, Brussels
Date: mardi 29 janvier 2019 16:44:15

Thanks

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "[REDACTED] Debating Europe" <info@debatingeurope.eu>
Date: 29 January 2019 at 16:27:13 GMT+1
To: Annika Nowak <annika.nowak@ec.europa.eu>
Subject: Google and Debating Europe – Fighting harmful content online – 5 February, Brussels
Reply-To: <info@friendsofeurope.org>

Dear Mrs. Nowak,

Hot take, or hate speech? Religious speech or incitement to violence? Tackling harmful content online has never been more vital, or more complex. Debating Europe and Google invite you to join the conversation on fighting toxic content across Europe, from extremism to hate speech on Tuesday 5 February.

We'll hear from tech executives, policymakers and experts about what works (and what doesn't), the latest developments and how to make the internet safer for everyone. We will ask, what is the role of legal and regulatory instruments? How effective is AI? And what are the challenges of moderating user-generated content at scale?

Join Google [REDACTED] and others for a discussion on how online toxic content is recognized and dealt with, as well as long-term solutions to problems such as hate speech and extremism. And because theory is nothing without practical experience, you can also take part in collaborative 'You Decide' sessions, and try your hand at locating, moderating and deciding on the removal of illegal and harmful content.

At the heart of global, European and national efforts to tackle hate speech and the like, there are fundamental questions about what is acceptable online. We want to hear your answers.

For further information and to register for this event, please click here.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Debating Europe
Discuss YOUR ideas with Europe's leaders!
+32 2 [REDACTED] / [REDACTED]@debatingeurope.eu
www.debatngueurope.eu

Debating Europe is the online discussion platform that connects Europe's citizens with policymakers and experts in a dialogue on the critical issues facing our continent.

Privacy Policy | Unsubscribe from all mailing lists

