How is technology shaping the future of food?
Join us for a discussion over lunch

Food is a main element of life and transcends all ages and cultures. But as transparency, ethics, sustainability and health are values that we increasingly look for in food, our speakers will explore how technology can help delivering these.

With guest speakers:

[redacted] who has launched several initiatives in Italy and helps jump-start food innovations. [redacted] is currently working on developing the farm of the future.

[redacted] is the [redacted] and [redacted] a charity founded to bring voices together from across the food system to unlock progress towards a more sustainable future.

Please RSVP here.

Best wishes,

[redacted] Google Brussels
